

Season's Greetings! ❄️

As we close out 2022, we would like to thank our ocean observing community and share some highlights from the year. Below you will find some of our biggest stories of the year, staff updates, and holiday cheer from our team at NOAA. Thank you for being a part of our community and we wish you a wonderful holiday season and a happy new year!

News Highlights from 2022

- 2022 Arctic Report Card Released: Human-caused climate change fuels warmer, wetter, stormier Arctic - published on NOAA.gov!
- Annual Global Carbon Budget Report Released: Global Atmospheric Carbon Dioxide Levels Continue to Rise - published on NOAA Research!
- GOMO Program Holds Inaugural Program Review; Report Now Available
- First Cruise in Three Years in Support of the South Atlantic Meridional Overturning Circulation Project (joint GOMO/AOML)
- GOMO Helps Launch Ocean Observing in the Arabian Sea
- GOMO Released First Ocean Today Video "Satellites of the Sea: Observing the Ocean for Hurricane Research"
- Women in the Sciences Leadership Workshop Reaches 300
- Inaugural Ocean Observing Supplement to Oceanography Magazine Now Published

- Indian Ocean Buoys Serviced & Rescued with help of International Partners
- Argo Program Receives 2022 IEEE Corporate Innovation Award

Staff Updates

This December, GOMO welcomed Dr. Sandy Lucas as the Director of the Arctic Research Program.

GOMO says farewell to Dr. Sid Thurston, who is retiring from NOAA at the end of December.

Brought to you by: Jessica Mkitarian, Senior Communications Specialist

For questions or to be added or removed from this list, contact jessica.mkitarian@noaa.gov

NOAA Global Ocean Monitoring and Observing Program | 1315 East-West Highway
Silver Spring, MD 20910 | globalocean.noaa.gov | Email: gomo@noaa.gov